

FOOD

Food worth flying for

A list of the best food I've eaten recently from around the globe

May 6, 2023 | 11:48 am

Baby potatoes coated in a tamarind and black salt spice mix at Fatt Pundit (JW Howard)

Izakaya, Amsterdam, the Netherlands

A place to “be seen,” though the same can’t always be said for its neighborhood, De Pijp. High-quality Japanese dishes are taken to new levels with robust South American heat. Try salmon, yellow tail and sea bass sashimi, then meat and fish skillfully fired up in the Hibachi fire bowl or on the Robata grill. Sit at the bar if you can, watching the barmen whip up lychee cocktails to the tune of a live DJ. Endeavor not to arrive late via push bike, wearing trainers.

Order this: Sweetcorn tempura, spicy hamachi and shiso uramaki. Followed by Japanese wagyu.